Recruitment of new starters (external recruitment to appoint an apprentice)
Activity	Action
Obtain authority for your vacancy in the normal way – you must have a genuine vacancy. The apprentice’s salary will be paid from your own budget. Their apprenticeship training will be funded from the levy or co-investment through your digital apprenticeship account.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Create a recruitment profile and advert for your apprentice vacancy - salary should be paid as advertised and may want to be reviewed after year one to align with your company’s internal policy.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Agree with your training provider how they will support you with your recruitment. Some providers offer a free recruitment service, i.e. reviewing CV’s and selecting suitable candidates for you to interview. You may wish to do this yourself; it is your choice.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Once you have approval for your vacancy and have finalised your recruitment profile and advert, advertise this via your normal recruitment mechanisms. Also, submit this to your training provider who will place on the National Apprenticeship Service webpage. Apprentice vacancies must be advertised for a minimum of two weeks – consider the dates of your interviews so these can be outlined in your advert to avoid any delays.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Complete your recruitment and assessment activity (your local HR contact can support you with this). You will need to obtain copies of the successful candidate’s qualifications and return these to the training provider and keep them on the company HR file for the candidate.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Ensure your training provider has carried out functional skills assessment (in maths and English) to assess the apprentices current working level of these. We would suggest that this is undertaken as part of the recruitment or pre-employment clearances stages.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Once your recruitment and pre-employment clearances (references, functional skills, health and well-being, DBS check – if needed, etc) have been completed, agree a start date. Inform the training provider of this.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Issue your apprentice an apprenticeship service agreement, which details their apprenticeship programme, commitment, terms of conditions and entitlements (your local HR contact can support you with this).	<input type="checkbox"/>
The same process and policies apply to an apprentice as to any other new starter. Probation and induction processes will apply; this includes mandatory training, health and safety requirement, appraisals and performance reviews. Apprentices should be able to access all the same reward, benefits and entitlements as everyone else, such as annual leave, pension, HR policies etc.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Consideration should be taken on the age of the apprentice entering the business and practices may need to be adapted to support younger workers (16 to 18-year olds), if applicable. Ensure you comply with younger worker rights .	<input type="checkbox"/>

Enrolment of existing employees
Activity	Action
Contact your training provider to refer your employee to start on programme. They will aim to contact you and arrange an initial meeting within four weeks. You and the apprentice must attend this meeting. This is where the formal enrolment will occur, the programme will be discussed, an individual learning plan (ILP) agreed and review meetings agreed.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Ensure that your employee is aware of the programme commitments, expectations and support available prior to enrolment.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Agree how you support the 20% off the job learning in advance and pre-plan this into diaries. Agree this with the training provider at the initial meeting (see below).	<input type="checkbox"/>

Activity for new starter and existing employee after enrolment on programme
Activity	Action
Obtain a copy of your apprentices commitment statement, apprenticeship agreement and individual learning plan on enrolment.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Ensure your apprentice and you have access to the e-portfolio system to access resources, upload and access documents and track progress.	<input type="checkbox"/>
The training provider will hold the initial meeting with yourself and your apprentice, within the four weeks of them starting with you. You will need to attend this.	<input type="checkbox"/>
The training provider will arrange to regularly meet with the apprentice informally (on a one to one basis) for the duration of the programme. These meetings might be held face to face (at your apprentice's base), over the telephone or via Skype.	For Info
The training provider will arrange formal review meetings on a regular basis. You will be required to attend these meetings to obtain direct feedback from the training provider on progress and any support requirements. You will also need to liaise with the training provider throughout to ensure that the apprentice's work/tasks meet the requirements (evidence) for their workplace units, hence the importance of you attending these formal review meetings.	<input type="checkbox"/>
You are encouraged to hold regular one to one meetings with your apprentice throughout their programme, to ensure they are progressing well and are supported throughout. If you have any queries or require any support, the training provider is your first point of contact.	<input type="checkbox"/>
If you have any concerns, there is a change in circumstance for your apprentice or a need for additional support or clarity, please speak to your training provider at your earliest opportunity.	For Info
